SAYS WILL FIGHT CHARGE OF THEFT

Will Gibson, Arraigned Yesterday For Petit Larceny, Declares He is Not Guilty.

HAS HIS VERSION OF STORY

Alleged Fousté Came to Barn After His Overcoat and Was Paid $1 For Gloves.

Fortunately there are two sides to every question and for that reason William Gibson, familiarly known as "Billy," who was arrested Thursday night and arraigned before Mayor Black yesterday afternoon for petit larceny, has his view of the affair to elate. Gibson is charged with stealing an overcoat and a pair of gloves, belonging to Carl Fousté, employed at the Davis Brother's barn. Carl Fousté filed the affidavit against Gibson.

Gibson has another version of the alleged theft. Fousté formerly worked at the Hiner barn, where Gibson has been employed since being released from jail. Fousté quit and went to the Davis barn, leaving an old and dilapidated overcoat and an old half-worn pair of gloves behind according to John Hiner, who went on Gibson's bond for two hundred dollars and by whom Gibson is employed now.

When Gibson went to work at the Hiner barn, he found the old coat and asked who it belonged to. No one seemed to know and whenever he needed an overcoat, which was very seldom, he wore that. Gibson says that he did not know that it was Fousté's coat nor did he think that anyone would care for it as it was nearly worn out. Fousté charged that the coat was stolen from the Davis barn, when Gibson says that Fousté came to the Hiner barn and got his overcoat. Gibson declares that he has not been in the Davis barn since he was released from jail.

According to Gibson's story, a man who was released at Hiner's barn, went over to the Davis barn, got work and told Fousté that Gibson was wearing out his overcoat and gloves. Fousté went over to the Hiner barn, so the story runs, and said that he wanted his coat which Gibson had been wearing. Gibson promptly handed it over to him, so he says, told him that he did not think anyone would want it, and asked him how much the gloves were worth, as he had worn them considerably. Gibson says Fousté declared they were worth a dollar, even though they did not cost more than fifty cents new, and that he handed him a dollar and kept the gloves.

Gibson declares that he is not guilty of the charge and that he will fight the case to the last ditch. He has several witnesses who swear that every word of Gibson's story is true.

FUNERAL SERVICES MONDAY

Body of John Rodebaugh Will be Laid to Rest.

John M. Rodebaugh died late yesterday evening at the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Rodebaugh, in West Third street. He had suffered for the past four months from cancer of the stomach, which caused his death.

Mr. Rodebaugh was fifty-eight years old and was never married. He is survived by his mother and three sisters, Miss India Rodebaugh, and Mrs. Anna Alexander of this city and Mrs. Mary Culver of Cincinnati, Ohio, and one brother, Will Rodebaugh of this city.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the home, conducted by the Rev. J. W. Turner. Burial will take place at East Hill cemetery.

CHURCHES WILL OBSERVE XMAS

Special Sermons in Keeping With the Day Will be Delivered by all the Ministers.

MUSIC WILL BE A FEATURE

The churches of the city will all have special Christmas services tomorrow. The feature of all will be the musical programs.

At the St. Paul M. E. church a special musical program has been arranged, which will include several solos by some of Rushville's best singers.

The United Presbyterian church will combine the Sabbath school with the regular morning services and the pastor, the Rev. A. W. Jamieson, will deliver a sermon for the children.

The Rev. J. B. Meacham of the First Presbyterian church will deliver sermons, both morning and evening, in keeping with the Christmas spirit. Special music will also be the feature.

The services at St. Mary's Catholic church Christmas morning will be at five, seven and nine o'clock, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. W. J. Cronin. Special music will be rendered by the choir at these services.

At the Main Street Christian church the Sabbath school and morning service will be combined and the Christmas exercises will be held at 9:15. The regular services will be held in the evening.

The First Baptist church will have a special Christmas program which will include recitations by the children. The sermon will be a special Christmas sermon by the Rev. E. C. Myers.

THE WEATHER

Increasing cloudiness followed by snow late tonight or Sunday. Rising temperature.

Christmas Spirit

I am thinking of you tonight, because it is Christmas Eve, and I wish you happiness; and tomorrow, because it will be Christmas Day, I shall still wish you happiness; and so on clear through the year. I may not be able to tell you about it everyday because I may be far away; or because both of us may be busy; or perhaps because I cannot even afford to pay the postage on so many letters, or find the time to write them. But that makes no difference; the thought and the wish will be just the same. Whatever joy or success comes to you will make me happy. Without pretense and in plain words, good-will to you is what I mean, in the spirit of Christmas cheer.

TRI KAPPAS ADD ARE MARRIED IN MITE TO FIGHT BLUEGRASS STATE

Have Been Working Diligently For Ten Days Assisting in War Against Tuberculosis.

MET WITH GREAT SUCCESS

Sold Over Forty Dollars Worth of Red Cross Seals at Post Office Alone.

The local chapter of Tri Kappa has been successful in procuring at least forty dollars from the sale of Red Cross Seals which is another nail driven in the fight being waged against tuberculosis in the United States. They have been working diligently, with two members of the local chapter at the post office all the time, for the past ten days. The girls have been working shifts, two selling in the morning and another pair working in the afternoon. They have sold four thousand seals at the postoffice alone and have added their mite in the great war that is going on and which is growing as the years pass. The forty dollars does not include those that have been sold at the various stores over the city. They have been on sale in many business houses for the past two weeks and many have been disposed of. The exact amount of the sales will not be known until next week when the final settlement will be made.

The Tri Kappas had charge of the Red Cross seal sale here last year and were highly successful but not Miss Pearl Warrick and Lowell Bowles of Near Mays Elope to Covington, Ky.

THEIR FRIENDS ARE SURPRISED

Said That There Was no Parental Objection to Match—Marriage Has Been Rumored.

Like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky to the residents of Mays and vicinity came the announcement today that Miss Pearl Warrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Warrick, living south of Mays and Lowell Bowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bowles, living in the same neighborhood eloped to Covington, Ky., yesterday and were married. Their sudden flight came as a big surprise to their many friends who had no idea that they had such intentions.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowles are both very popular young people of the vicinity in which they live. They have been keeping company for a long time and it has been rumored that they would be married, but their friends supposed that they would do it in the usual and conventional way. They left early yesterday morning, supposedly for a trip to Cincinnati, O.

Friends of the young couple can assign no reason for their elopement, unless it was merely to surprise their parents and friends. Everyone in that neighborhood refuses to confirm the story that there was any parental objection to the marriage.

PHEASANTS FOR RESERVE

Will Brown Received Large Number of the Birds.

A large shipment of pheasants arrived in this city today. The birds were for Will H. Brown. Mr. Brown will place the pheasants in the game reserve on the W. A. Cullen farm, west of this city. The birds came from Yardley, Penn.

FALLS OFF CAR AND IS ARRESTED

Riley Wilhelm is Treated to Ride in Indianapolis Patrol Wagon on Eve of Departure.

HE WAS TOO DRUNK TO WALK

Riley Wilhelm, a common police court character here, was arrested in Indianapolis last night, just as he was about to climb on the I. & C. Dispatch, due here at 7:06 o'clock. He was slated for a drunk and locked in the police station. Wilhelm was in a beastly state of intoxication and was unable to get on the car. When he started to step up on the first step his hand slipped and he fell back on the pavement, his face and head bleeding profusely. A policeman witnessed the whole scene and arrested Wilhelm, taking him to jail in the patrol wagon. It is supposed that he was given a hearing today.

The alternates named were Hazel Grigsby and Ruby Gwinup. In the various township contests this is the first one in which the boys have been victorious.

SISTER GIVES RARE PRESENT

Miss Hazel Bennett, After Zealous Work, Obtains Freedom For Her Brother, Fred.

WHO IS GRANTED A PARDON

Fatted Calf is Killed as Prodigal Has Returned Home on Eve of Holiday.

At no home in the city of Rushville or perhaps in the whole broad State of Indiana, will Christmas day be celebrated so zealously and with as much ardor as in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bennett in West First street. The fatted calf will be killed for the prodigal son has returned. Fred Bennett arrived home just in time to enjoy the annual holiday and will feast on turkey such as he never did before.

Young Bennett was pardoned by Governor Marshall one day recently, after serving nearly two years in the penitentiary at Jeffersonville. He was sentenced by Judge Sparks in the local circuit court in May of last year, after he pleaded guilty to the charge of grand larceny.

Bennett was alleged to have stolen a watch and other invaluable articles from Thomas Lucas while in company with several other young men. He was charged, arraigned before Judge Sparks, pleaded guilty, and was promptly sentenced.

To Miss Hazel Bennett, sister of the pardoned man, does Fred Bennett owe thanks for the fresh air that he is now enjoying. She worked diligently to give the best Christmas present which she will ever have the opportunity to give again. She never gave up until she had the signature of many prominent local men on the petition for her brother's pardon. She gave as the reason that Bennett's health was fast failing and that he could not live long under those conditions.

COURT ACTS VERY QUICKLY

Grants Drake Divorce Soon After the Complaint is Filed.

The court acted quickly this morning in the divorce suit of Louva Drake against Jesse Drake. The complaint was filed in the circuit court yesterday evening, the evidence heard this morning and a decree granted to the plaintiff about ten o'clock. Mrs. Drake made no starting charges in the complaint.

Santa Claus Fund Brings Cheer Into 200 Homes

There's no need to say that the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund did do an unlimited amount of good. Everyone knows that. It has become a fixture in the life of Rushville and it is to be hoped that there will be enough charitable people in the coming generations to pace it, or a better method of cheer bringing on, and help to make it the success that it has been in the two years that it has been attempted by the Daily Republican.

Without the help of the untiring assistants and the many people who have given of their money unstintingly to make a merry holiday for others, the fund would have been blighted at the beginning. Suffice to say that it has been a signal success and as to the honor—Rushville can take that unto herself.

Picture to yourself, if that be possible, the joy which might be brought into one little soul by bringing into its life a little doll. Even though it only cost thirty cents, it is surrounded with a halo that a plaything of ten times its value would have. To the little girl that received a dollie this afternoon life opened anew.

And the little boy—he received a greater variety of presents than the little girl. The little wheelbarrow meant hours of pleasure to him. It meant days next summer, when the sun is pouring down unmercifully hot, days of play in the garden. To the little boy who received the pop-gun, the story book, the printing set, the iron wagon, the train of cars and the numerous toys which were bought, life began all over again.

But the girls fared as well as the boys. Many of them were handed a doll cab, a story book, a washing set, a bed room suit for their dolls, a diminutive iron and innumerable other toys that appeal to the childish fancy. In each eye, as she received the plaything, the sparkle that had, in many cases, been dimmed by neglect, was revived and glistened like fire.

Besides the toys the children, at whose homes the Daily Republican Santa Claus stopped today, received delicacies that go to make for a real Christmas. Every child of the three hundred and twenty, which were made happy, for a few days of labor, received a big round orange. Where there were seven or eight children in the family, each one was given a half pound box of the best assorted candy to munch on Christmas day. Besides, each one received a liberal supply of nuts.

The Santa Claus fund could never have been made the signal success that it is without the assistance of Mrs. A. L. Stewart, Mrs. T. W. Betker, Mrs. Owen Kincaid and the members of the Tri Kappa sorority. All three of the women, prominent in charity work, bought practically everything that was given. Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Betker had charge of the list which is a mighty undertaking, obtaining the addresses and names of over three hundred children in Rushville. Mrs. Stewart went out and worked several days in order to perfect the list and get it correctly. Mrs. Kincaid had charge of the packing, Miss Maude Hunt and several Tri Kappas assisting her materially.

Little Folks Make Plea to Santa Claus

Dear Santa Claus,

I live about 3 miles east of Rushville. You can get down our chimney all right if the goat don't see you first. I want a little red sleigh with plenty of sleigh bells on it. Also a big sack of rock candy to eat next summer while "coming thro' the rye."

Don't forget Miss Dine, she want's a little brown huckster wagon.

CECIL GRACE IS PROBABLY LOST

To Trace of Aviator Who Lost
Way In the Air.

SENSE OF DIRECTION ERRED

After Crossing English Channel Aviator Headed Out For the North Sea and Since Then Nothing Has Been Seen of Him—There Is Still a Hope That a Vessel Not Equipped With Wireless Has Rescued Him.

London, Dec. 24.—To the list of victims of the air, which, without including him, already numbers thirty-five, the name of Cecil Grace, nephew of W. R. Grace, one time mayor of New York, may be added.

Flashing out over the French coast in his aeroplane, he headed for England. An hour later he was seen above the death-sucking Goodwin sands, on the coast of England, apparently lost as to sense of direction. He was headed for the North sea. Since then no word has come from the aviator, and it is believed he has perished.

The only hope is that he was rescued by a slow sailing vessel which has not yet reported in port. No vessel equipped with wireless could have rescued him, as the air has been thrashed in all directions by air stations and warships. Torpedo boats have vainly searched the British coast and the North sea.

A rigid search is being maintained for the body of the aviator, for he wore a cork life jacket which would keep him afloat indefinitely, and unless he was caught in the wreckage of his sinking aeroplane, he might be washed ashore.

Grace went out for the Baron de Forrest prize of $20,000 offered to the British aviator who, in a British made aeroplane, shall cover the greatest distance, including the passage of the English channel, during the present year. T. Sopwith had set a mark of 174 miles.

TIME OF DANGER TO BE AVOIDED

Holiday Season Generally Means a Loss of Life on Account of Many Risks.

CHRISTMAS TREES BURNED

Fire Insurance Hazards Multiply
During Season Owing to Special Electrical Displays.

The season is approaching when scores of lives are annually lost and hundreds of fires are started by carelessness in Christmas and holiday decorations. In addition to the fires and panics in crowded stores, due to careless wiring of special displays or the catching fire of inflammable decorations; thousands of dangerous risks are run in homes, churches and Sunday schools. Wherever possible, electric lights should be used instead of candles on Christmas trees and the wiring should be carefully done. If this is not possible, the greatest precautions should be taken to see that the trees are firmly installed and well braced, so that they may not be overturned when presents are being taken down or by the over-enthusiasm of the children. Under no circumstances should cotton batting be used by amateur Santa Clauses for hair and whiskers, as non-inflammable substitutes can easily be had, and the risk of serious or fatal burning is excessive. The holidays, of all periods of the year, should be freed from the danger of terrible calamities, which is always present unless reasonable precautions are taken in the matter of holiday decorations and festivities.

No feature of the national campaign for the conservation of our resources is more important than the reduction of the fire waste of the country. The work begun by President Roosevelt had to do chiefly with the conservation of natural and unutilized resources in the shape of growing timber, unmined coal and ore and the undeveloped water. These are all important, but of even greater importance is the reduction of the annual fire waste in the country, because into the building materials and manufactured products destroyed has gone human toil, which is as much wasted when they go up in fire and smoke as in the raw material of which they are composed. The public should understand that property destroyed by fire is absolutely wasted. Insurance may indemnify the owners, but the money comes out of the public just the same, and only a great growing and healthy country like this could stand the enormous drain of $250,000,000 burned up each year, without going into eventual bankruptcy. The insurance companies are co-operating in the campaign for the reduction of fire waste, and in public spirited and unselfish way, since they reduce their rates in proportion as the hazard is reduced. The business world is waking up to the economic need of checking this enormous drain upon the nation's resources and is co-operating with better building laws the appointment of fire marshals the improvement of water supplies and fire protection and a greater feeling of individual responsibility for the causes and results of fires.

Fire insurance hazards multiply during the holiday season owing to special electrical displays, Christmas trees in stores and show windows, and a liberal use of cotton-snow and other inflammable decorations. Every merchant should be especially careful about fire hazards at this time, not only because of the danger of interfering with his trade at the most profitable season of the year, but because of his responsibility to the public through endangering the lives of the holiday throngs. The most serious hazard at holiday time is the Christmas tree filled with lighted tapers and likely to be overturned and hurried electric wiring put up for special displays. Trees should be installed so that they cannot possibly be overturned, and electric lights should be used in place of candles. The latter are always dangerous, especially after the tree gets dried out in a warm room. Electric lighting fires are due almost invariably to the practice of allowing employees not familiar with the electric hazard to install displays in show windows and other places. The wires are frequently run over nails, which wear off the insulation and start blazes, cotton batting and tinsel is allowed to come into contact with lamps and their receptacles, and circuits are frequently overloaded by special displays and thus made dangerous. The board of underwriters are glad to pass upon all holiday electric lighting plans in order to diminish the losses should confer with their insurance men and should be certain that the electric wiring is done by competent men.

so much so as they were this year. Last year was the second year that they had ever been placed on sale here, but the first year the proceeds were small, due to the fact that no organization pushed the sale.

The Red Cross warfare against tuberculosis in Indiana is doubtless the greatest movement in the interests of humanity that has ever been started in the State. It is a movement to save curable victims of the white plague and to drive the disease from out of the reach of people who are not afflicted with it. It is also a movement which every man, woman and child in Indiana can help. Money is necessary to conduct the warfare and the Red Cross is raising it by the sale of its Christmas seals. The success of the movement each year is measured by the quantity of seals which the public purchases. The sale of one Christmas seal means a penny contributed to the Red Cross fund. It is by gathering up these pennies, and sums which come from larger purchases of the Christmas seals, that the Red Cross is enabled to further its work against the white plague in Indiana. About 12 per cent. of the money from the sales is spent to meet the expenses of the Christmas seals campaigns. This goes to pay for printing the seals, for advertising posters, for postage and expressage on thousands of packages of Christmas seals which are during the season sent out from the Red Cross bureau at Indianapolis. The remaining 88 per cent. of the fund is spent in Indiana for the benefit and protection of the public who purchases the seals.

The Christmas seals money is spent in several ways. It has been used to establish colonies of fresh air cottages in Indianapolis, Vincennes, Evansville, South Bend. Some of the money is given to tubercular societies in different cities to help them care for white plague victims. In the last two years the Red Cross has itself found many patients with incipient cases of the plague and has paid for their treatment in sanitariums. In these two years the Red Cross has seen the Christmas seal provide the means for completely curing 25 people, most of them women, of the disease, and it still has several patients in sanitariums who will next spring be discharged as cured.

Another method of spending the Christmas seals fund has been by circulating printed literature on how people may themselves guard against the fight of the plague.

Although this is the third season for the sale of Christmas seals in Indiana, the Red Cross warfare against the plague is only in its beginning. The spread of its efforts will be measured by the generosity of the public in the purchase of seals. It is hoped that the fund this year will amount to $10,000 and that it will go into higher figures year after year.

Saved From Awful Death.

How an appalling calamity in his family was prevented is told by A. D. McDonald, of Fayetteville, N. C. R. F. D. No. 8. * YOU HAVE NO BLESSINGS? *

Schedrin, a political suspect in an attempt to escape from the convict mines of Siberia, and chained to a wheelbarrow, from which he was not released for many months, is quoted in one of the current magazines.

"When they unchained me I could not get enough movement. I wanted to run and run, and it seemed to me that I could never stop. How strange it is that men who enjoy perfect freedom of movement never realize the wonderful happiness that is theirs?"

Schedrin had never appreciated until he was deprived of it how much of the enjoyment of life consists of freedom of muscular movement. There are other freedoms as little appreciated, because for several generations now they have been undisputed, which if they should suddenly be withdrawn would force the same reflection. We have:

- Freedom of person.
- Freedom from attachment to the soil.
- Freedom from life contacts of servitude.
- Freedom from imprisonment.
- Freedom to move from place to place.
- Freedom to travel without passports.
- Freedom to emigrate.
- Freedom to marry on choice.
- Freedom to buy land.
- Freedom to choose an occupation.
- Freedom of religious belief.
- Freedom of scientific research.
- Freedom to speech and press.
- Freedom of taste in dress.
- Freedom of political affiliation.
- Freedom of assemblage.

These rights are so common and have been so long enjoyed it is difficult to realize that every one of them has been disputed; that every one has cost the sacrifice of blood; that in few countries are all of them enjoyed even today, and in no country in the same degree as in America. And yet there is little conscious appreciation of the privileges of our American life.—Des Moines Register and Leader.

Indiana Democrats Couldn't Draw Champ Clark Out.

Indianapolis, Dec. 24.—The visit of Champ Clark, the next speaker of the house, proved something of a disappointment to the Democrats who wanted to impress him with the special fitness of State Chairman Jackson for the office of sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Clark resisted all efforts to bring him out on the question, and Jackson's friends have about concluded that the influence of the Missourian cannot be depended upon for him.

Some of the Democrats did not think it would be wise to ask the aid of Mr. Clark, but others thought it might be secured by a tactful eulogy of Jackson. The next speaker was dumb to the appeals, and did not show a great deal of interest.

Threatened Use of Mysterious Power. Evansville, Ind., Dec. 24.—Alphonse Schmidt, a wealthy German, has received a letter threatening him with death if he does not send the writer $200 within four hours after its receipt. The letter was smeared all over with blood, which the writer said was from her own body, and if Schmidt did not pony up he would die through her "mysterious astral power." It was signed "Jennie Adams," but no such person can be found.

The Postal Banks.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

On January 3, the first working day of the new year, the postal savings bank system is to go into operation throughout the United States. This is the promise of Postmaster General Hitchcock. Deposits will be received on the morning of that day, and the scheme is expected to be in full operation long before the Post Office Department prepares its annual report in the later part of 1911. Mr. Hitchcock, it is said, has given some study to the systems in vogue in Europe, and he believes the new departure will be successful.

The scheme will be on a small scale at first. Only one bank in each state will be empowered to do business on this plan, and, in all cases, small towns are selected for it. Our Post Office people evidently believe that it is well to go slow in the beginning with this system. It will be in the nature of an experiment with us, although it does well in England, Germany, France and some of the other countries. As the Republican platform of 1908 urges its adoption, it formed part of the administration programme, and, after a long contest, it was enacted. Most of the bankers of the country were against it. As the interest which will be paid by the postal banks will be smaller than that given by the savings banks and the other financial institutions which pay any interest at all the new scheme will hardly be brought into active competition with the old. Therefore the existing banks were able to make only a weak assault upon the experiment.

"We favor the establishment of a postal savings bank system for the convenience of the people and the encouragement of thrift," said the Republican platform of two and a half years ago. The "thrift" argument has a good deal of force. Many recently arrived aliens are somewhat distrustful of the ordinary banks. They want something with a governmental guarantee behind it. They had this sort of backing for their savings in the countries of their birth, and they felt safe on this account. For those people the new scheme in the United States will have powerful attractions. Many Americans, too, as we learn every short time through the losses which they sustain, are distrustful of the savings banks, and hide their money in stockpiles, in stoves during the summer months, and in other places which they consider to be safe. The postal savings banks will gather in these hoards. Thus they will add to the sum of the fluid capital of the country, and will have a tendency to give a stimulus to trade.

MAY SUSPEND RECEIVERSHIP

Appeal by Automobile Insurance Company of America and Others is Probably Next Step.

15 DAYS GIVEN TO PERFECT IT

Assets of Corporation, For Present at Least, Will Remain in Hands of Federal Union.

The authority of John M. Hall, appointed receiver for the Automobile Insurance Company of America by Judge Collier, in superior court, will be suspended, and the assets of the company, for the present at least, will remain in the hands of the Federal Union Surety Company, if the plan announced by the defendants is carried out, says the Indianapolis News.

Samuel Dowden, attorney for the surety company, gave notice that an appeal from Judge Collier's decision in the receivership case would be taken to the supreme court by all the defendants. Fifteen days were given by the court in which to perfect the appeal.

Prior to the formal announcement of the appointment of Mr. Hall, the surety company made an offer to turn over the assets in its hands to a trustee, but to this arrangement attorneys for some of the litigant stockholders of the insurance company refused to assent. Following the refusal to agree to this proposal, which carried with it also the rescinding of the order made by Judge Collier that a receiver be appointed, the defendant filed notice of appeal.

Under the statute the receivership is suspended until the final determination of the appeal. The appellants, however, must give a bond equal at least to that of the receiver, as they retain possession of the assets.

This bond to protect the assets, and the restraining order against the transfer of the assets, are the only present victories of the plaintiffs, if the appeal is perfected.

The Federal Union Surety Company asked Judge Collier to embody in his decree an order for the cancellation of the stock which had been issued to the insurance company in return for its assets. No issue of that kind having been presented in the case at bar, the court declining to include this in the decree, leaving it to the surety company to make arrangements outside court, or, if successful in this attempt, to bring a separate proceeding seeking the cancellation in case the transfer is finally declared to be an illegal one.

TRAVEL IS HEAVY.

The steam and interurban travel is quite heavy and the trainmen are having their hands full. People in large numbers are going from one place to another to spend Christmas with relatives and friends. Trains on nearly all of the roads entering this city are late and have been for the past few days.

The thunder rolled and the rain poured down in torrents and the old log began to swell up till the poor fellow was wedged in so tight that he could not get out. XMAS WITH THE COUNTY INMATES

Superintendent Sidney Hunt Will Give the People of the Poor Farm A Big Christmas Dinner.

NO PRISONERS IN THE JAIL

While the citizens of Rushville and Rush county are enjoying the Christmas season, it may be of interest to know how the inmates of the county will observe Christmas day.

The county jail contains no prisoners as the only man Sheriff Bebout had, who would have spent Christmas behind the cold stone walls, was released a few days ago, on a suspended sentence. The young man greatly appreciated his release as it was very lonesome in Mr. Bebout's hotel especially at this time of the year.

Following the usual custom, the people who are confined in the county asylum will be given a big Christmas dinner which will bring the old and feeble inmates back to the time when they were boys and girls. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hunt, who have charge of the county asylum, promise to give them a treat that they will long remember. As this is Mr. Hunt's last Christmas as Superintendent, he promises to make the event a memorable one.

County Auditor Stone Receives Duplicates Which Means Change In Bookkeeping System.

WILL GO INTO EFFECT JAN. 1.

County Auditor Jesse Stone has received samples of the new forms, which will be a part of the systematic and uniform system of bookkeeping being introduced throughout the State by the State board of accounts. The new system will result in a big change in the manner of bookkeeping in the auditor's office.

The new system provides for a different form of county warrants, one style instead of two being used. The receipt will not be on the stub as is now the case, a separate book being used for that purpose. It will be necessary for the auditor to write out all receipts before distributing the warrants. As a consequence the warrants will not be distributed until the second Monday in each month, instead of after the allowance of bills by the commissioners. The new system will go into effect the first of the year.

For Christmas

Most people have selected their Christmas gifts that they are going to give to their relatives or friends.

But there are some that have not yet made up their minds as to what they want. To these we wish to say that we have some nice new, clean money in all denominations, in either Currency or Gold that would make a Christmas present sure to be appreciated.

Don't forget what we have said about a Savings account for the children. We pay 3 per cent interest compounded semi-annually. And furnish free a handsome steel savings bank for home use.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prest., Buffalo, N. Y.

CHAPTER VIII.

Apparitions.

Roscoe did not pause to investigate the effect of his blow, nor to waste a second one. If the man who had confronted him there in the companion-way was dead, so much the better. If he were only half-dead, the job could be finished at any time. He was out of the way for the present at least, Roscoe hurried on, searching state-rooms and passageways and finally the crew's quarters, forward.

When he had satisfied himself that he and his men were in undisputed possession of the yacht, he emerged on deck again by the forward hatchway, and found Captain Planck already there. He directed him to go below with Schwartz, who had been engineer aboard the whaler, and get steam up as promptly as possible. He himself remained on deck, directing the unloading and stowage of those precious golden slabs that the rest of the party were bring out in boats from the shore.

"We've got it all, Roscoe, unless you want them barrels of whale oil," a man in the last boat sang out as they came alongside.

"We'll leave them to pay for this nickel-plated ship," Roscoe answered. "Come! Look alive and get aboard. We'll be ready to start as soon as we can get a little daylight."

He looked them over, numbered them as if they had been so many sheep, noted that they were all here, except poor Miguel; Planck and Schwartz were down toiling at the boilers.

"Stay here till I come back," he commanded. "I'm going below to see that everything's stowed all right. When I come back I want to talk to you."

He disappeared down the after hatchway, switched on a light and indulged in a long, satisfied look at the great masses of precious metal which were stacked, according to his directions, in the strongroom.

His purpose in coming down here was threefold. He meant to see that the gold was stored correctly and he meant to lock the room up, so that its precious contents would not be tampered with, and bring the key away with him. He was not afraid that any of his crew would try to steal it, but he thought the moral effect of having it locked away where it was inaccessible to them, and of his keeping the key in his own possession, would be a help in maintaining his prestige as commander. They knew the sea better than he did, just as he knew the nature of gold-bearing rock. It was necessary to do something to bolster up his position as chief of the party and keep it above dispute. He did not want to have to kill any of them yet. The Aurora would be short-handed enough as it was.

But there was one more reason for that hurried trip to the strongroom. He wanted to be sure that a certain rosewood box had come aboard along with the treasure and what few stores they were taking away with them.

That little box had occupied much of his leisure since the day when he had murdered the owner of it. He had sometimes wished that when it came who could tell the story of the disappearance of the Aurora and form a more or less definite surmise as to the cause of it. That rosewood box had Captain Fielding's journal in it—a journal that had been written up to the very morning when Roscoe had murdered him. Its discovery would go a long way toward bridging the gap which Roscoe meant to leave in their departing trail. In short, if that rosewood box were left behind, Roscoe would always feel that he was in more or less danger of detection. And he didn't mean to have a thing like that hanging over him.

Consequently, when he discovered that the box was not on board, and that his particular injunctions concerning it had been either neglected or disobeyed, he came raging up on deck again, a most formidable figure, which caused his companions, hardened ruffians though they were, to cower and shrink away from him.

In a torrent of furious blasphemy, he demanded to know why that box had not been brought aboard; and the concentrated lees of his rage he emptied at last upon the two men whom he had ordered to do it.

"Now," he concluded, when the torrent had spent itself, "you go ashore, you two. Yes, you, Carlson—I mean you—and you, Rose; go ashore now and get it."

Then, after a momentary silence, he raged out the command again, amid a foul flood of abuse.

But still they made no move to obey, and the big Swede, in evident terror, answered him. "I won't get it, Roscoe. If you want that box, you can get it yourself."

"What in hell do you mean?" the leader stormed. But his voice, even as he spoke, lost its confident tang of authority.

"You tell him," said Carlson, nodding to his companion, Rose. Evidently it was Rose who had told the story to the other members of the party. He was a squatly built man with a stubborn jaw, and Planck, in the days of his command, had always disliked him as that most undesirable pest that can be found in a fore-castle—a sea lawyer.

"What did you leave the box in the hut for?" he demanded. "He might not have come back if you had left it in the cave."

"Come back!" echoed Roscoe, with a growl.

"That's what I said. We went to the hut to get it, and there was a light inside, and there he sat, just like he used to. And he had the box open—"

"He! Who do you mean?" There was no trace of truculence in Roscoe's voice now. He spoke as though his throat was dry.

"It was Captain Fielding; him to the life. And, yet, it was different from the way he used to be. We couldn't see it very well. Its face was sideways and the light was behind it, and it looked smaller and thinner—more—more like a woman. (If Rose had had the word 'spiritual' in his vocabulary, he would have used it. In default of it, he gave up trying to express just what he meant.) Anyway, there he sat with the box open beside him, and that red book of his open on his knees. Go back for it? Well, I guess not."

There was a momentary silence after he had finished, and Roscoe could feel it, as it stretched itself out to the length of half a minute or so, the chill of their terror enveloping him. To throw it off, he blustered, stormed at and abused them for a pack of liars. But in the end he sprang down into one of the boats, and said he would fetch the box himself. Whether he believed their story, or not, it was the only thing for him to do.

As he pulled shoreward he tried hard to convince himself that he did not believe it; that Rose and Carlson had probably forgotten all about the box, and had trumped up the story to avoid the necessity of going back for it.

He beached his boat, scrambled ashore and set out walking doggedly along in the direction of the hut. The fog was still all but impenetrable, even to his practised vision, but he knew the shore like the palm of his hand, and he trudged on without a pause, until he was within ten paces, perhaps, of his destination.

But there he faltered and stopped, turned about, under an irresistible impulse of fear, and would have fled had not sheer necessity compelled him to stop again. There was a light, a diffused yellow glow, faint but unmistakable, shining out of the windows of the hut.

He knew he could not go back to the Aurora without that box; it was necessary both to his future safety and his present command of the situation. His one hold upon those sullen followers of his depended upon his being impervious alike to terror and to defeat. If he were to go back now without accomplishing his purpose, it would only be a question of days before they murdered him. They all hated him, enough for that, he knew.

Yet, even under that necessity, it was three or four minutes before, at the command of his burly will, he began creeping forward on hands and knees toward the lighted window of the hut.

And when he reached a point where he could command its interior, his knees slipped out from under him and he lay prone upon the icy beach, his face buried in his outstretched arms. For those two sailors had told the truth.

Presently he drew himself up and squatted back on his haunches, staring. Human or not, the figure there in the hut seemed unaware of his presence. It was staring at the expiring flame of the candle in profound abstraction. When it stirred, as presently it did, it was with a natural, human motion. And then the candle went out.

In the few seconds of silence which followed, his terror returned upon him with full force. But it went away as suddenly as it had come, and with its recession there surged up in him a wave of brutish anger. It was no ghost that had sat in contemplation over the contents of that box, for it was moving now, with human footsteps—faltering, uncertain footsteps, at that. And when it appeared, just visible and no more, outside the doorway, it called aloud in a human voice—a woman's voice.

At the sound of it, he drew himself up, towering, before her, and, so, became visible to her—a monstrous, blurred, uncertain shape.

And she cried out; this time in terror. Then, before he could spring upon her and kill her with his hands, as his brutish instinct of rage urged him to do, he started back suddenly, and himself cried out!

For a faint circle of light, wavering, wandering, unearthly, was shining straight down upon both of them through the fog—out of the sky itself.

Looking up, he saw overhead a single, great luminous eye, and in the reflection of its own light upon the ice, very faintly, the fabric of outstretched wings.

Then from up there, overhead, he heard a voice—a quiet voice, "I'm here," it said. "Don't be afraid."

Blindly, Roscoe flung up his hands, whirled around and fell; scrambled to

When the kidneys are affected, life is in danger. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for my neighbor. W. W. Rigdon, Greenfield, Ind., says: "My kidneys and back have caused me a great deal of suffering in the past four years. Nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Foley Kidney Pills which were recommended to me. I had pains over my hips and in my back right over the kidneys. The action was very irregular and caused much irritation. The trouble affected my whole system, making me nervous, with dull headaches on arising and spells of vertigo. The faithful use of Foley Kidney Pills dispelled all my misery and all symptoms of kidney trouble disappeared."

his feet again and fled, like a man hag-ridden, down the shore.

As he did so, he heard a ragged volley of shots from the direction of the Aurora. This sound of plain human fighting, which he understood and did not fear, helped restore to equilibrium his mind, which a moment before had been tottering to absolute destruction. Once he could get back to his boat and feel the oars under his hands again—once he found himself pulling out toward the yacht, no matter how desperate the odds awaiting him there might be against him, he would, he felt, be himself once more.

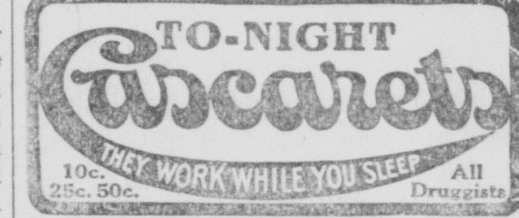

He ran on and on down the beach. He had not passed his boat, he knew; but he finally realized that he had passed the place where he had brought the boat ashore.

Once Populous Shaker Colony Ready For Dissolution.

Lebanon, O., Dec. 24.—Swayed between two factions, one favoring and the other bitterly opposed to the plan to give away property valued at $1,000,000 to the state as an agricultural experiment station, the twenty-four members of the Shaker colony at Union village, near here, are in a turmoil. When the proposition is officially recognized by the state, which it is likely to be in a few days, the fight may be taken into the courts. The property involved is 4,000 acres of the richest farm land in Ohio. Of the twenty-four surviving members of the Shaker colony, only four are under seventy years old, and seven are more than eighty. Marriage is forbidden among the Shakers, and so the once populous colony has dwindled.

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Indulged in a Long, Satisfied Look. and regarding that little box as the sealed-up casket of the murder he had done upon the owner of it. The crime was there inside.

To overcome that feeling, he had worked all the harder trying to solve its secret.

His interest, now, however, in making sure that the box had really been brought aboard the Aurora was not superstitious, but wholly practical. They were leaving most of their stores behind them, as there was no time either to transport them to the Aurora or to destroy them. With these stores and with the shelter afforded by the hut and the little clump of surrounding out-buildings, it was probable that some members of the Aurora's party, at least, would survive the winter. If a relief ship should arrive the next summer, or even the summer thereafter, it would probably find some one on this desolate shore

CHICAGO MOURNING
HER HEROIC DEAD
City Will Have Charge of Fire Victims' Funerals.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The death toll of the big stockyards fire is now placed at twenty-three. These figures are liable to increase by the discovery of more bodies of men not known to be missing, perhaps not members of the city fire department.
The body of Captain Dennis Doyle of Engine Company 39, the last of the firemen missing, was taken from the ruins late yesterday afternoon. The conflagration which has brought gloom to so many homes preparing for the joys of Christmas is not yet under control, though it has wrought damages estimated at more than $1,000,000. Measures of relief for the families of the firemen who lost their lives and plans for the funerals, memorial meetings and other official expressions of Chicago's grief in the face of the great disaster were planned by the special council committee of fifteen appointed by Mayor Busse.

NEITHER SIDE
YIELDS AN INCH
Great Railway Strike May Be Called Any Moment.

ALL PEACE PLANS HAVE FAILED

There Is Now Hardly a Hope That Disagreement Between Engineers and Managers Can Be Settled Without One of Most Far-Reaching Strikes in History of Country—Men Ready to Go Out at Moment's Notice.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The most gigantic strike in the railroad history of the country is now imminent, though hope of peace in the western railroad situation has not yet been abandoned. Within forty-eight hours an order may be issued which will tie up more than half the railroad mileage and isolate more than two-thirds of the territory of the United States.

The engineers are so exasperated at the attitude of the general managers' committee, which had refused to take the strike threat seriously, that they are ready to go out on a moment's notice. If the order is issued it will strike every railroad west of Chicago at the same hour.

Only the yielding of the railroads and a further increase in the wages of the engineers can prevent the clash. Since Dec. 17 Commissioner of Labor Neill has worked day and night to avert the strike, and neither side has yielded an inch. The government mediator declares that he fears there will be a strike. He called Grand Chief Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and his assistants into a final conference, after which Mr. Stone declared that he saw no chance of a settlement and that a fight might be expected within a very short time. The members of the engineers' committee from the various systems are making preparations to leave the city, and it is probable that if a strike order is issued it will be set far enough ahead to allow each officer to go to his post, which will require about three days.

Ready to Go the Limit.

Although the general managers have professed to regard the strike vote of the men to be a mere "bluff," the representatives of the engineers assert that they never were as much in earnest in their lives, and they are ready to go the limit. They have placed themselves deliberately in a situation where it is said they cannot back down unless they wish to see their organization go to pieces. The move for wage increase on western roads began in the convention of engineers last May. In accordance with the instructions, the chairmen on various systems met and formulated new wage schedules which were submitted to the rank and file for a vote last July. When the demands were ratified by the men they were presented to the managers in August and negotiations began Sept. 26 last. The conference lasted until Nov. 7, when they were broken off while the labor officials submitted the question of a strike to the men. During the negotiations the first demands had been scaled down to such an extent that many of the men were dissatisfied, and when they were asked whether they would agree to a further scaling down or strike to enforce the modified demands, the vote was 97.63 in favor of a strike.

If the strike is called sixty-one railroads will be involved, aggregating 136,000 miles of track, or 53 per cent of the railroad mileage in the United States. The number of engineers involved is 34,000. They are demanding 12 to 15 per cent wage increase. The companies have offered an increase of 9½ per cent, which would amount to $3,600,000 annually.

LOST THEIR TRAIL

Unsuccessful Yeggmen Were Tracked to Indianapolis City Limits.

Noblesville, Ind., Dec. 24.—Burglars failed to blow open the safe in the State bank at Westfield, six miles west of this city. They stole crowbars and sledge hammers at a blacksmith shop and gained entrance to the building by prying open the front door. Then, with a heavy charge of nitroglycerin, they blew off the outer door of the safe, but did not succeed in getting the inner door open.

The burglars stole a horse and buggy from a stable and were tracked in the snow to the city limits of Indianapolis, where traces of them were lost.

It Was Well Nigh Unanimous.

Mexico City, Dec. 24.—The grand jury of congress has voted to expel the noted Vera Cruz poet, Salvador Diez Miron, from the national assembly, and thus turn him over to the regular court to be tried for his attempt on the life of Juan Chapital in the lobby of the house of congress some days ago. The vote stood 147 for expulsion to 1 against.

Burglar Fatally Wounded.

Detroit, Dec. 24.—In a gun battle between Patrolman William B. McAlonan and a burglar giving his name as George White of Cleveland, the patrolman was shot and dangerously wounded and the burglar received a bullet wound from which he will die.

COUNTESS DE SINCAY.
Titled American
Girl Announces
Birth of Daughter.

Youngstown, O., Dec. 24.—A cable message from Brussels received here announces the birth of a daughter to Countess de Sincay. The countess was Miss Marie Louise Logan, granddaughter of General John A. Logan.

ELECTION BRIBERY DIRECTLY ALLEGED
First Evidence of the Sort in Cincinnati Inquiry.

Cincinnati, Dec. 24.—In connection with the last election in Cincinnati the first direct allegation of bribery was made before Magistrates Matson and Hannah, at the hearing in the contest of the Democratic candidates for state general assembly who are trying to unseat the Republican candidates who were elected on the face of the returns. George Williams, who said that he formerly lived in the Enterprise hotel, testified that he had been paid $1 for his vote.

After Williams had testified and left the room a man who had been waiting in the hall was seen to hand him half a dollar. Attorney William Thorndyke, representing the Republican defendants at the hearing, tried to seize the man and hold him long enough to serve a subpoena on him as a witness, but Edward A. Tape, one of the defeated Democratic legislative candidates, and Clinton Collins of the Democratic county committee, drove the man out of the building before he could be compelled to appear and tell why he had paid the witness.

TOOK FATAL DOSE

Unable to Read Poison Label, Woman Got the Wrong Bottle.

New York, Dec. 24.—As a result of showing her eleven-year-old daughter Susie how easy it was to take a teaspoonful of what was supposed to be cough medicine, Mrs. Josephine Barone died.

"See, I'll show you how easy it is to take it," said the mother as she drank the stuff. It had hardly passed her lips when she fell to the floor in convulsions. The mother had got hold of the wrong bottle and had swallowed an acid which is used to brighten up plumes. There was a poison label on the bottle Mrs. Barone had used, but as it was printed in English, the husband explained to the police, she could not read it.

Agricultural Engineers to Meet.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 24.—Arrangements are practically complete for the fourth annual convention of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, which will be held at Purdue university next Tuesday and Wednesday. Professor Nye, chairman of the local committee, says the meeting will be the largest in the history of the society. More than one hundred members are expected, coming from many parts of the United States and Canada.

Didn't Stop the Clock.

Columbus, Ind., Dec. 24.—Although the home of Mrs. Mary Dewese, a widow, living northeast of here, was destroyed by fire and the face of her clock was burned off, the hands never stopped marking time and the clock is still running. E. H. Kinney, a local insurance adjuster, went to the scene of the fire to adjust the loss and found the clock in the ruins. He picked it up and found that it was ticking merrily away.

Teachers Elect Officers.

Indianapolis, Dec. 24.—Samuel L. Scott, superintendent of the Jeffersonville schools, was chosen president of the Indiana State Teachers' association. The other officers for the ensuing year are: Chairman of the executive committee, Linnaeus N. Hines of Crawfordsville; permanent secretary and treasurer, J. B. Pearcey of Anderson; recording secretary, Adelaide Steele Baylor of Wabash.

SHOPPERS WERE PREVALENT TODAY

Last Grand Rush Was Made on Local Stores, Crowd Being Largest of Season.

MANY ARE FARMERS IN CITY

Late Shoppers as Well as Early Shoppers, Who Could "Come Back," Were Here.

Even though it was necessary to face the wintry blasts, crowds of holiday shoppers thronged the streets today in the last grand rush. Especially this afternoon, the stores were thronged with people and the streets were congested with traffic most of the time. The large number of farmers in the city today was especially noticeable. They made up the greater part of the crowd as most Rushville people have already completed their shopping excursions.

Rushville business houses handling Christmas goods enjoyed one of the best days of trade in their history. On the streets it was good to see people carrying great bundles of purchases and stowing them in buggies and carriages or waiting on a corner for a traction car to pick up passengers and bundles and bear them toward their homes.

City people were also large buyers Saturday and kept the clerks busy till late at night. But the present is after all the week for the big sales and many of them. For many reasons all can not be early Christmas shoppers and the week before Christmas was a busy one.

columns of the Daily Republican, the merchants have told just what they have for sale and these hints have materially aided prospective buyers in fixing their minds on just what they wanted.

Said a saleslady to a reporter today: "I can tell the readers of advertisements, especially a woman, the minute she enters the store. She knows already what she wants and if familiar with the store goes right to the proper department and makes her wants known. It doesn't take her half as long as it does the woman who has to look around and she gets just what she came for."

STUDENTS FLOCK HOME

Come From Schools All Over Country to Spend Holidays.

On the eve of the holidays, Rushville and Rush county is overflowed with college students. They have been arriving all week from colleges and universities all over the United States to spend the week with home folks and friends and to enjoy a huge turkey dinner tomorrow. It is the happy season of the year for students, as many of them do not get home for any other vacation during the year.

CANTATA WAS SUCCESS

"King Winter" Given at Manilla Last Night Pleases Audience.

The cantata, "King Winter" given by the Manilla high school glee club last night was a huge success. The music was far above the ordinary for a home talent entertainment and showed that all of the performers had been well trained. Miss Hazle Lytle of this city, music teacher in several small-town schools, had charge of the affair.

NAME MATRON OF ORPHANS' HOME

Mrs. Cora Shelly of Spiceland Will Succeed the Late Mrs. Ella Bundy.

HAS HAD SOME EXPERIENCE

Selection by Henry County Board Considered Very Wise One— Takes Place Jan. 1.

Mrs. Cora Shelly of Spiceland was appointed matron of the county orphans' home at Spiceland at noon Friday by the county commissioners, who were in session to consider the selection of a person to take charge of the home, says the New Castle Courier. Mrs. Shelly was selected from a list of eight applicants, all of whom had good qualifications.

The appointment of Mrs. Shelly is considered a wise choice on the part of the commissioners. She has had previous experience in the care of dependent children, having assisted the late Mrs. Ella Bundy at the home. She has recently been employed as a clerk at the Kahn-Heller store in this city. Her bid submitted with the application was 25 cents per day for each child under her care.

The other applicants for the position were Mrs. Belle Cosand, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. W. Bernard, Mrs. Nettie Hufford and Mrs. Charles Harvey, all of Spiceland, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ives, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burke and Mrs. Joseph Elliott, New Castle.

Mrs. Shelly will not take charge of the home until after January 1. The deal for the purchase of the property will not be completed until January 2, when the county council meets to make the proper appropriation. At present the children are being cared for by the Bundy estate and are under the direction of Miss Reba Unthank.

TRI KAPPAS TO GIVE BIG DANCE

Will Give Most Pretentious Hop of Festive Holiday Week at Modern Woodmen Hall.

HAPPENS ON THURSDAY NIGHT

The local chapter of Tri Kappas will be hostess for the annual state convention here next summer and thereby hangs a tale. They are raising money in every available manner to defray the expenses of the two day's session which will be costly. So far they have taken five cent shows on a per cent. basis for one night only and have cleaned up neat sums of money. They have other plans to be enforced after Christmas to enlarge the fund.

The Tri Kappas will give a big dance in the Modern Woodmen hall holiday week, the proceeds to be to defray the expenses of the convention. They issued over three hundred invitations and are expecting a large crowd. Mitchell and McIlfee the best colored musicians of Indianapolis who ever played here, will furnish the music.

BANKS TO CLOSE MONDAY

Postoffice Will be "Dark" After Ten O'clock.

All of the banks in the city will be closed on Monday when Christmas day, which comes on Sunday this year, will be celebrated. Several of the stores will be closed on Monday. The postoffice will be open Sunday morning from nine until twelve o'clock instead of the usual hours. On Monday morning, the office will close at ten o'clock. One city delivery will be made, while the rural route carriers will make their usual trips on account of the heavy mail. The I. & C. general offices will be closed all day Monday.

FRUIT FARM HERE?

Col. James Worth, the Joplin, Mo., millionaire, who created such a sensation in Indianapolis two or three years ago with his advertisement for a wife, arrived in Indianapolis yesterday and registered at the Claypool. "I'm just here," he said, "for a little fun and to spend Christmas with the boys. I expect to take a trip down to my fruit farm in Rush County. 'Yes,' he added, 'I'm still single.'"
